

REMINING

The site has been previously disturbed by pre-law surface mining operations. A portion of the site (18.50 acres) contains a pre-law Marker Seam surface mining. A remining exemption is not being requested at this time, the potential environmental and safety problems related to prior mining activity are being addressed in this section.

Based on our visual inspections of the site and the soil, overburden and water analyses conducted as part of the application process, no significant environmental or safety issues appear to exist in regard to re-disturbance of this site. Based on our soil and water analyses, no significant AMD or acid-toxic material problems are present. There are no exposed mine entries at the site. The pre-existing Marker seam mining will be reclaimed as per the plans in Section 13.1.
